

4-in-1 Super Fantasy League

One super league. Four different formats. Four Champions.

Formats:

- Total Points
- Head-to-Head Tournament
- Two Halves Head-to-Head Tournament
- Eliminator

Objective:

Try to accumulate as many points on a weekly basis to move up the standings in the Total Points format, qualify and advance in the Head-to-Head formats, and qualify and survive in the Eliminator.

Weekly Roster Build (best ball format):

- Select: 6-QBs; 7-RBs; 7-WRs
- Applied: Top 5 QBs; Top 5 RBs; Top 5 WR/TEs; Top 2 FLEX (RB/WR/TE)

The week's worst performing QB and two worst performing RB/WR/TE will be dropped from your weekly best ball lineup. Same lineup is used in all four leagues.

Player Selection:

Players can be used for one weekly roster build only. Once a player has been selected in a weekly lineup, they cannot be used in another weekly roster build for the remainder of the year.

Total Points Format

Build a new roster every week and the owner with the highest point total at the end of Week 13 will be the winner.

Head-to-Head Format

After Week 3, the 80 highest scoring teams will be seeded in a single-elimination tournament that will be played out weekly and will conclude with a two-week championship matchup between the final two teams. Two-Halves Tournament

All entrants will be randomly inserted into a First Half head-to-head bracket at the start of the season. This bracket will produce a winner in Week 6.

The 80 highest scoring teams through Week 6 will be seeded into a Second-Half bracket that will conclude with a winner in Week 12.

The First Half Tournament Winner will play the Second Half Tournament Winner in a Week 13 Championship. See Bracket —> <https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/1x4X0uAnNnvI2jgNnGxNMMyve634MYdrJ2sgD6VTemzrA/edit?usp=sharing>

Eliminator

The 60 highest scoring teams through Week 4 will earn a spot in the Eliminator, which will start in Week 5. Every week, a predetermined number of teams will be eliminated based on their weekly points total, until we end up with four teams in Week 13. The highest scoring of the four remaining teams in Week 13 will be the winner.
